Setting Sun

With this edition, the Summer Session Sun rises for the last time this quarter. We, the staff, have enjoyed putting out the paper these last nine weeks and hope you have enjoyed reading it. The summer session has been a center of activity in Montana and we are glad to have played a small part in making it so.

It is only fitting that we include in our swan song our thanks to the print shop boys for putting up with us; to Dean J. W. Maucker, dean of the summer session and financier of our paper; and to all those who have helped us to gather the news for the Sun.

To those of you who graduate, au revoir and congratulations; to those who return to teach, keep up the good work; and to those who return this fall, see you then.

Tip Sheet

With Hell Week just around the corner, we have gathered a few tips from several of the more experienced examination-takers on how to prepare for and write finals.

Our tipsters agree that the best thing to do before a test is to load up your notes and books, go down to one of the local pubs with several fellow students, order a pitcher or two, throw the books in a corner, and commence to have a good time. The experts affirm there is no better method to mend shattered nerves.

When you walk into class to take the test, confident that you know your material by reason of your extensive preparation, there are a few things to remember about the actual writing.

First, always remember to ask several questions about the questions. The prof has deliberately spent several hours trying to make the questions clear and likes to be asked to explain them.

Second, always write as big as you possibly can in order to fill up three or four blue books, but remember never to write legibly. Profs love to stay up 'til the wee small hours deciphering your answers.

Third and last, always be the last one out of the test. It shows you're interested anyway.

If you use this system our experts guarantee that you can take the same courses over again the next quarter, which, after all, should be a snap.

Equality?

The 7,000 women currently enlisted in the WAC (women's army corps), are estimated to release seven Army infantry battalions for combat duty.

If future military necessities require full-scale inductions of men as in the last war, a similar draft of women for clerical and specialized duties, particularly in non-combat areas, would give a considerable lift to combat manpower requirements.

Women often claim their equality with men. A forced draft of women would be a good way to decide the issue.

P. S. Better yet, let's send THEM to the front.

Summer Session Attracts Many Notables to MSU

Summer session is the season for notables on the MSU campus and this past summer has been no exception.

Nearly 45 visiting professors, including such men as Joseph Kinsey Howard, Emilio Osta, and Don Faurot, joined the regular faculty for summer session.

Other Visitors

Some of the other visiting teachers are:

Miss Agnes Boner, formerly of Gogebic Junior college in Michigan, who conducted an English unit in the demonstration class along with her regular teaching duties. Miss Boner is joining the English staff here next fall permanently.

A. Stan Rescoe of Central Michigan college offered two courses for teacher librarians this summer and Dr. Charles E. Howell, Northern Illinois State Teachers' college, who has been a visiting faculty member for many summer sessions, taught special courses for school administrators in addition to his other duties.

The music school had many outstanding visiting faculty members in addition to Osta. Dr. Beryl Rubinstein, director of the Cleveland Institute of Music, conducted piano master classes during the Montana State Music Teachers' institute in July.

Guy Taylor, conductor of the Springfield Symphony Orchestra, directed the orchestra during the high school music camp. Alvin Edgar, head of the department of music at Iowa State college, directed the band and Lloyd Oakland, Cornell college, led the chorus.

Lighting Expert

Dr. D. B. Harmon, Austin, Tex., a noted authority on the field of school lighting and general classroom planning, conducted a session for school administrators on classroom construction.

Other distinguished visitors included Dr. Harold C. Urey, one of MSU's graduates, who spoke at convocation June 29

Meetings on Bond Compromise Start

The Montana state examiners board and an education board committee will discuss a compromise for splitting the $5,000,000 for new buildings among the six university system units in meetings starting today.

A district court suit tied up the allocation when the two boards tangled over which has the power to allocate the money.

Gov. John W. Bonner, Attorney General Arnold H. Olsen, and Secretary of State Sam W. Mitchell are on the examiners board. The education board compromise committee includes Mrs. C. F. Ullman, Big Timber; Horace J. Dwyer, Anaconda; G. M. Brandborg, Hamilton; and Mrs. F. H. Petro, Miles City.

Governor Bonner declared that the power to allocate the funds "undeniably rests" with the Board of Examiners.

on "World Government and Atomic Energy."

A. B. Guthrie Jr., 1950 Pulitzer prize-winning novelist with his epic tale of the Oregon trail, "The Way West," was a featured lecturer at the writers' conference July 27-Aug. 8.

Other members of the writers' conference staff were Miss Edith R. Mirrieles of Stanford, Calif., and Mrs. Helen Everitt of New York.

Frederick Pisky-Schmidt, Hungarian journalist and trade union leader, was a featured speaker at the Montana Labor institute.

Doyle Returns From Finland

Dick Doyle, MSU track and field star, is back in Missoula after successfully competing as a member of the United States track and field team in Finland during the summer.

Doyle participated in eight discus throws, winning eight, and losing two to teammate Fortune Gordien of Minnesota, who holds the world record for the discus. Doyle also won two hurdles events.

After the meet, Doyle went on a sightseeing tour of Europe which included stops in Stockholm, Sweden; Amsterdam, Holland; Brussels, Belgium, and Paris, France.

He holds the national discus collegiate title with a throw of 171 feet 5 inches. His best throw in Finland was 170 feet 2 inches.

FINES DUE NEXT THURSDAY

Candidates expecting to receive degrees, including masters' degrees, at commencement exercises on Aug. 17 must clear their library records and pay fines by Aug. 15. Mrs. Emma B. Lommasson, registrar's office, announced yesterday.

All other students must also take care of their records and fines by Aug. 17.

15 Conferences, Institutes On Summer Session Agenda

The summer session, drawing speedily to a close, has had many interesting opportunities for contact with fields other than regular University work. The session offered varied conferences and institutes, many of which were open to the general public.

Touching off the summer program was the Parent-Teacher Leadership conference which took place June 19 and 20. The two-day gathering was attended by leaders in the P-TA movement in Montana.

Next came the Business Education conference, June 29 and 30, which featured Mrs. Mandeline Strong, noted business education specialist. This program was of interest to teachers of commercial subjects throughout Montana and neighboring states.

The Institute on Classroom Planning followed on July 10 and 11. It was devoted to an intensive interstate institute on basic factors in classroom design featuring Dr. Darel Boyd Harmon, national authority in the field, and other specialists. Architects, contractors, oculists, optometrists, school board members and administrators from Montana and Idaho were in attendance.

On July 10-13 the Seminar for School Administrators took place, sponsored by the Montana School Administrators association. The seminar dealt with classroom planning and teacher education problems.

The Elementary School Principals conference on primary reading met July 12 and 13. This was an intensive work session, one of the projects of the newly organized Montana association of Elementary School Principals designed to professionalize elementary principalship.

July 11-13 the third annual Conference on the Teaching of English took place. The conference registrants engaged in language arts teaching at all levels throughout the public schools. It was sponsored by the Montana Council of Teachers of English.

Dance Get-together Teaches Folk Arts

The Western Dance workshop, a part of the recently concluded Northern Rocky Mountain Round-up of the Regional Arts, opened on the campus Friday with 65 registrants and concluded Sunday, according to Charles F. Hertler, chairman of the health and physical education department.

The program began with instructions on how to conduct a square dance and demonstrations in basic square dance steps.

E. S. (Red) Henderson and his Silver Spurs troupe of Spokane, directed the program of folk and square dancing instruction and demonstration, which was climaxed with a dance Sunday evening on Dornblaser field.

sored by the Montana Council of Teachers of English.

The principal summer conference of Montana educators, the Educational Problems conference, met July 13-15.

The eleventh annual meeting of the Rocky Mountain institute for Chamber of Commerce secretaries met July 16-22 under the sponsorship of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Jointly sponsored by the Montana chapter of the American Association of Social Workers and the Social Administration department of the University, the Social Work institute met July 17 and 18.

Montana Music week, July 24-28, was the annual program featuring a wide variety of music events: the Music Teacher conference, High School Music camp, unit course in music education, master classes, concerts, and recitals. The Publications Pow Wow met in conjunction with the music camp.

One of the highlights of the current session was the Regional Arts roundup which took place July 24 through Aug. 8. It brought together on the campus the work of creative artists in music, handicrafts, fine arts, the drama, creative writing, the dance, and pageantry. This program stressed art indigenous to the northern Rocky Mountain region and was headed by Joseph Kinsey Howard, Montana author.

Pulitzer prize winner A. B. Guthrie Jr. was the big feature attraction at the Writers' conference which took place July 27 through Aug. 8. As an integral part of the arts roundup, this conference, built on last year's successful session, stressed problems faced by northwest writers.

The seventh annual Labor institute met Aug. 3-5 and was sponsored by the University and Montana labor organizations.

Winding up the conferences and institutes which took place on the campus during the summer was the Western Dance workshop, Aug. 4-6, which featured a Spokane dance demonstration troupe.

Sun Inkslingers Watch the Birdie

Left to right: Russ Nielsen, Missoula; Bob Fader, Minneapolis; Normamae Milkwick, Anaconda; and Fred Patterson, Philadelphia, the parties responsible for the Summer Session Sun. They violently objected to having their picture taken, so much so that they took up 16 inches of space in this paper to print it, besides letting the engraving be made at someone else's expense.

'Lady Vanishes' To Be Film Fare Tomorrow Night

A dramatic thriller will be shown at Simpkins Little theater tomorrow. "The Lady Vanishes" is the film, directed by suspense-master Alfred Hitchcock, and starring Margaret Lockwood, Michael Redgrave and Paul Lukas.

"The Lady Vanishes," a British production, influenced director Hitchcock's rise to fame in the United States. The story concerns the mysterious disappearance of an elderly woman from a fast train travelling through Europe. The surprise denouement reveals a tale involving political espionage and counter-espionage just prior to World War II.

"The Lady Vanishes" established a vogue in American motion picture melodrama whose influence has been felt for the last ten years.

Friday Concert Is Musicians' Finale

A chorus, a band, and a string ensemble composed of high school musicians from towns and communities throughout Montana, directed by visiting conductors, was presented in concert Friday evening in the Student Union auditorium.

The concert climaxed the two-week Montana high school music camp staged annually under the auspices of the music school.

Music camp activities included three hours of daily rehearsals by each organization, private lessons for each high school student, elective classes in art, drama, radio, and music appreciation, and a supervised recreational program.

Approximately one hundred student musicians, representing 25 Montana cities and towns, performed in the combined concert.

NO CONVO TOMORROW

Last week's convo featuring the labor institute was the final convo of the current summer session. There will be no convo today or next week.

Talk on Publishers Ends Writers' Confab

Mrs. Helen Everitt's lecture, "What Is Your Publisher?" was the concluding lecture of the 13-day writers' conference. The conference was part of the Northern Rocky Mountain Roundup of Regional Arts, which ended Tuesday with a general panel discussion and summary of the 1950 session.

During the last day of the session the registrants spent their time in discussing the short story, discussion led by Edith Mirrielees; in fiction, led by Naomi Lane Babson; and in historical and regional fiction and non-fiction, led by A. B. Guthrie Jr., Robert P. Struckman, and Joseph Kinsey Howard, director of the arts roundup.

V-J HOLIDAY SET MONDAY

Monday, Aug. 14, is a holiday on the campus and throughout the state. It is the day set aside in remembrance of V-J day when the Japanese signed an unconditional surrender five years ago bringing to an end the hostilities of World War II.

Annual Labor Institute Ends

The seventh annual labor institute, a three-day discussion of current labor problems, ended Saturday. The meet was sponsored by the Montana Federation of Labor, the Montana Industrial Union council, and the Montana Farmers union in cooperation with the University.

Jerry Voorhis, former congressman and executive secretary of the Cooperative League of America, opened the session at Thursday's convo with a discussion of cooperatives. That afternoon, Kenneth Davis, secretary of the northwestern council of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers union, spoke on collective bargaining.

Workman's compensation and industrial hygiene were the subjects of Friday morning's meeting. The discussion was headed by Prof.

Arthur Carstens, assistant director of the UCLA institute of industrial relations; Walter P. Coombs, Montana industrial accident board chairman; and A. Wallach, director of the state board of health's division of industrial hygiene.

The Friday afternoon session was highlighted by a talk by Arthur Elder, director of education for the International Ladies Garment Workers' union, who spoke on taxation.

Frederick Pisky-Schmidt, Hungarian journalist and trade union leader, topped the speaking fare at the banquet Friday night.

Saturday, Robert McKenna, production marketing administration director for Montana, spoke on agricultural price policy and the Brannan plan. At the concluding session, Professor Carstens summarized the institute.
